Jordan River Commission Seeks Ex Officio Members

West Valley City – The Jordan River Commission today announced that it is seeking interested community partners to join the commission as ex officio members. Businesses, non-profit organizations and individuals with an interest in the preservation and enhancement of the Jordan River are encouraged to apply.

“We are eager to involve the various groups in our community who have a passion for the Jordan River,” says West Valley City Councilmember At Large and Jordan River Commission Chair Corey Rushton. “We look forward to collaborating with them in preserving and promoting this important resource.”

Those interested in becoming ex officio members should contact Corey Rushton at 801-963-3346 or corey.rushton@wvc-ut.gov to express interest and begin the application process. Applications will be reviewed at the Commission’s April meeting.

The Jordan River Commission was established in June 2010 in an effort to preserve and protect the Jordan River. The Commission helps facilitate orderly planning and development while protecting individual jurisdictions’ ability to govern their own area. In addition, the commission promotes and supports the “Blueprint Jordan River” document created by Envision Utah, which has set guiding principles and goals for protecting the Jordan River and developing it as a community resource.
